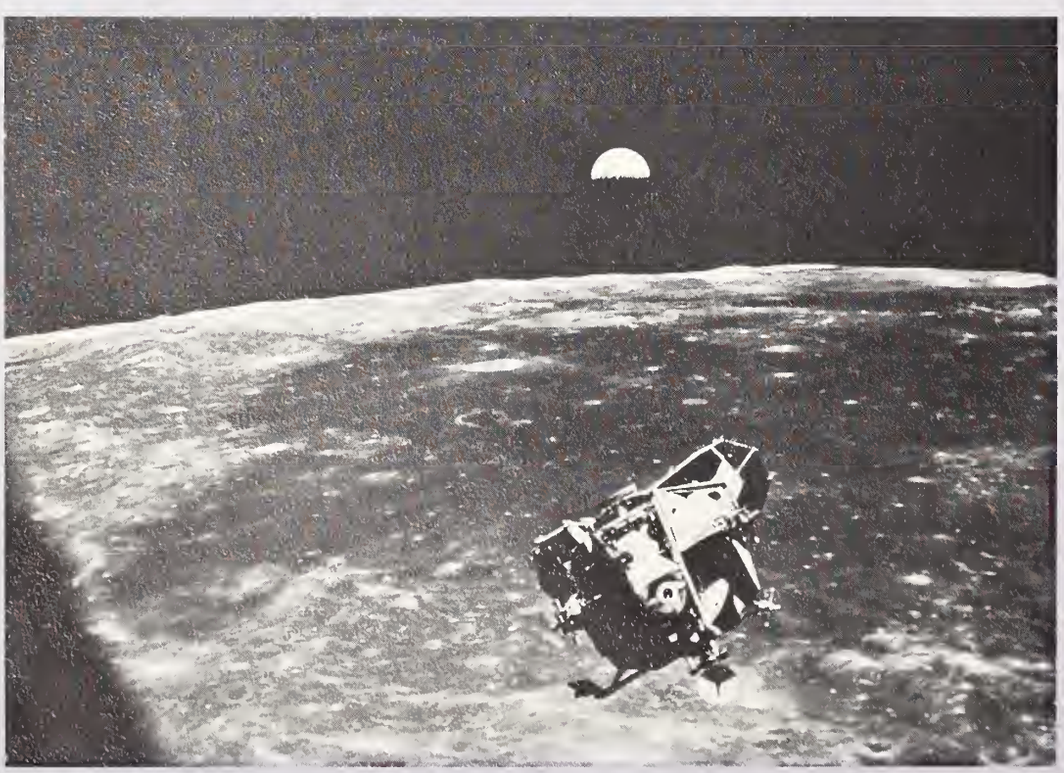
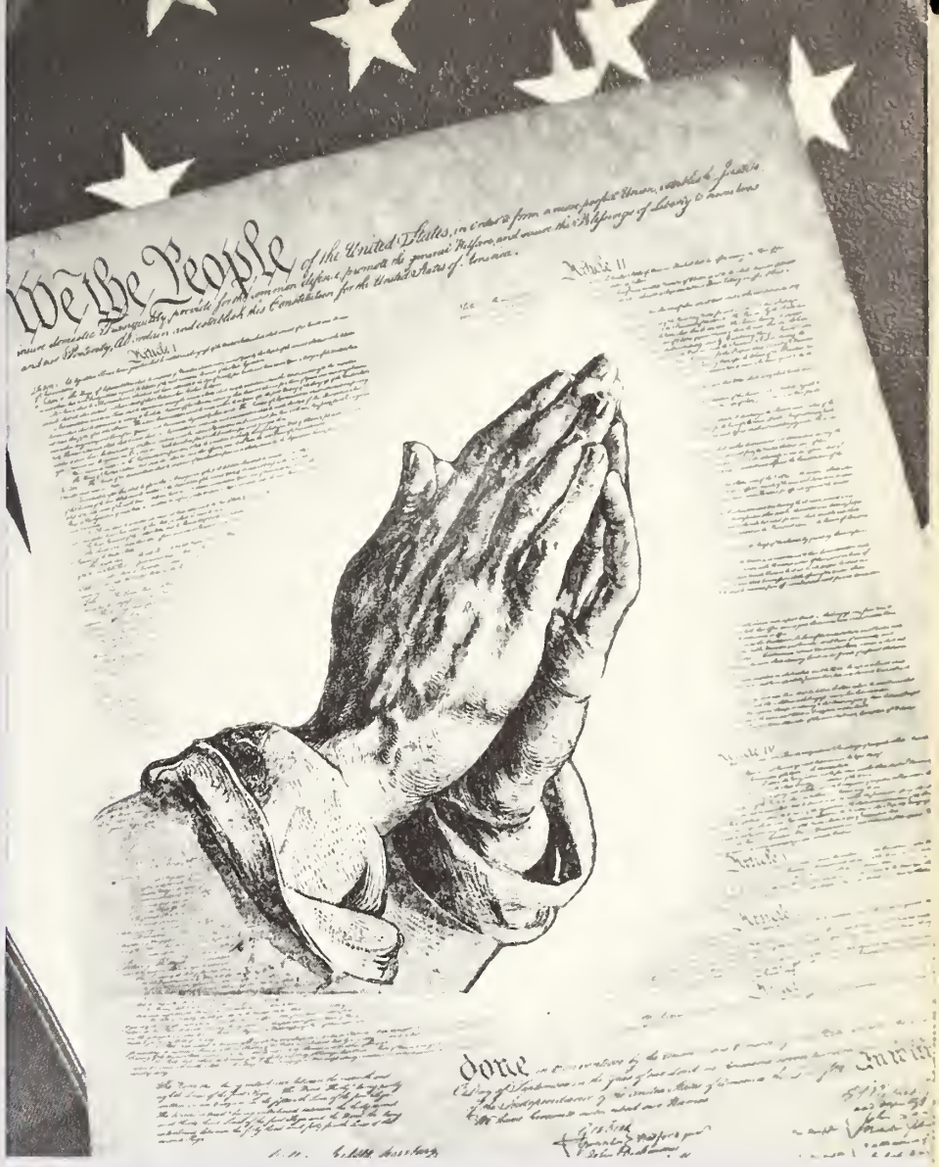
Foreword

They say that man is finished;
That he cannot conquer.
They say that no one has an answer—
The real answer; that no one would even care.
But we have an answer—a challenge!
Man has risen from stagnation to movement,
From darkness to light,
From ignorance to knowledge.
Through this example,
Can we not take hope in our future?
Should we not redouble our efforts?
There are more fields to conquer,
More light to shed,
More knowledge to gain;
Yet there is a certain haziness
Still with us.
Vindagua means
"Looking through a glass darkly."
Isn't it time man stopped thinking
And achieving through one?

Our Nation Rises



to the Challenge.



This book is dedicated to America's space Achievements.

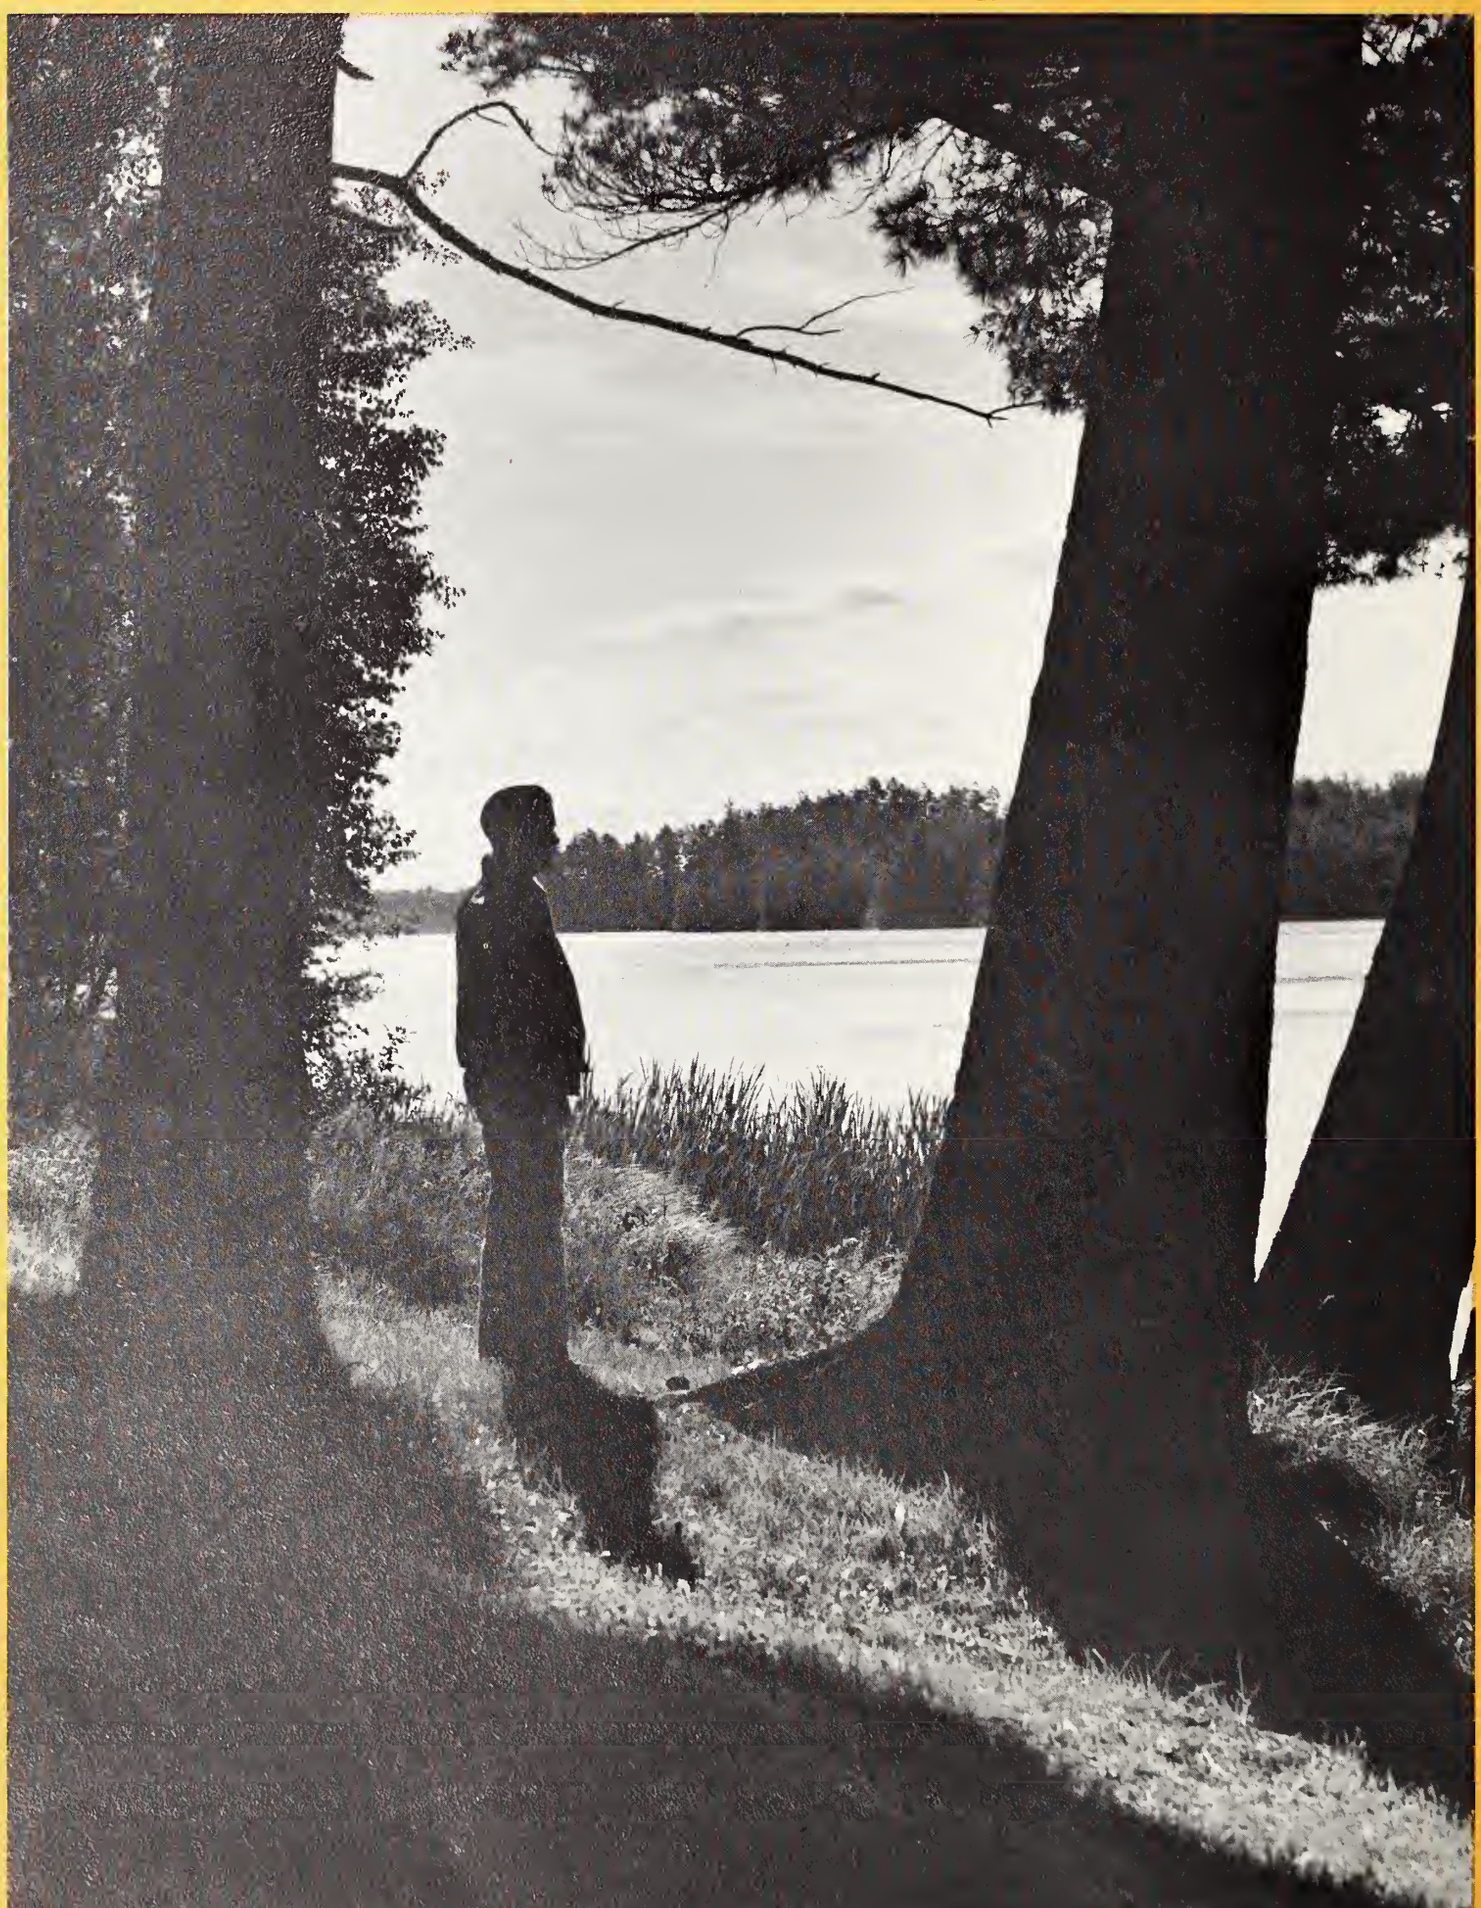
For years the country planned; the world watched, and the universe waited. A level of attainment was reached. We had the ability; all we needed was the challenge. Provoked by Russian success, President John F. Kennedy gave us the summons in his inaugural address. The country answered. Three men were chosen.

In a "cockle shell" boat they sailed a sea no one had sailed, and they walked a land that had felt no man's touch. They had heard our summons and had answered our call.

Products of a force, the American Society, these three men were molded by a tradition. Competitive in style, unifying in spirit, our unquenched curiosity and fortitude made possible their quest. Complete devotion to God and country strengthened the hearts of the three men that initiated man's conquest of the boundless universe.

The country came together, prayed, watched and waited for their safe return. Not merely for daring, but because they brought us all closer together, we dedicate this 1970 Vindagua to Neil Armstrong, Michael Collins, and Edwin Aldrin.

The first challenge to the student is to recognize the quest . . .



then rise to it - in spirituality . . .

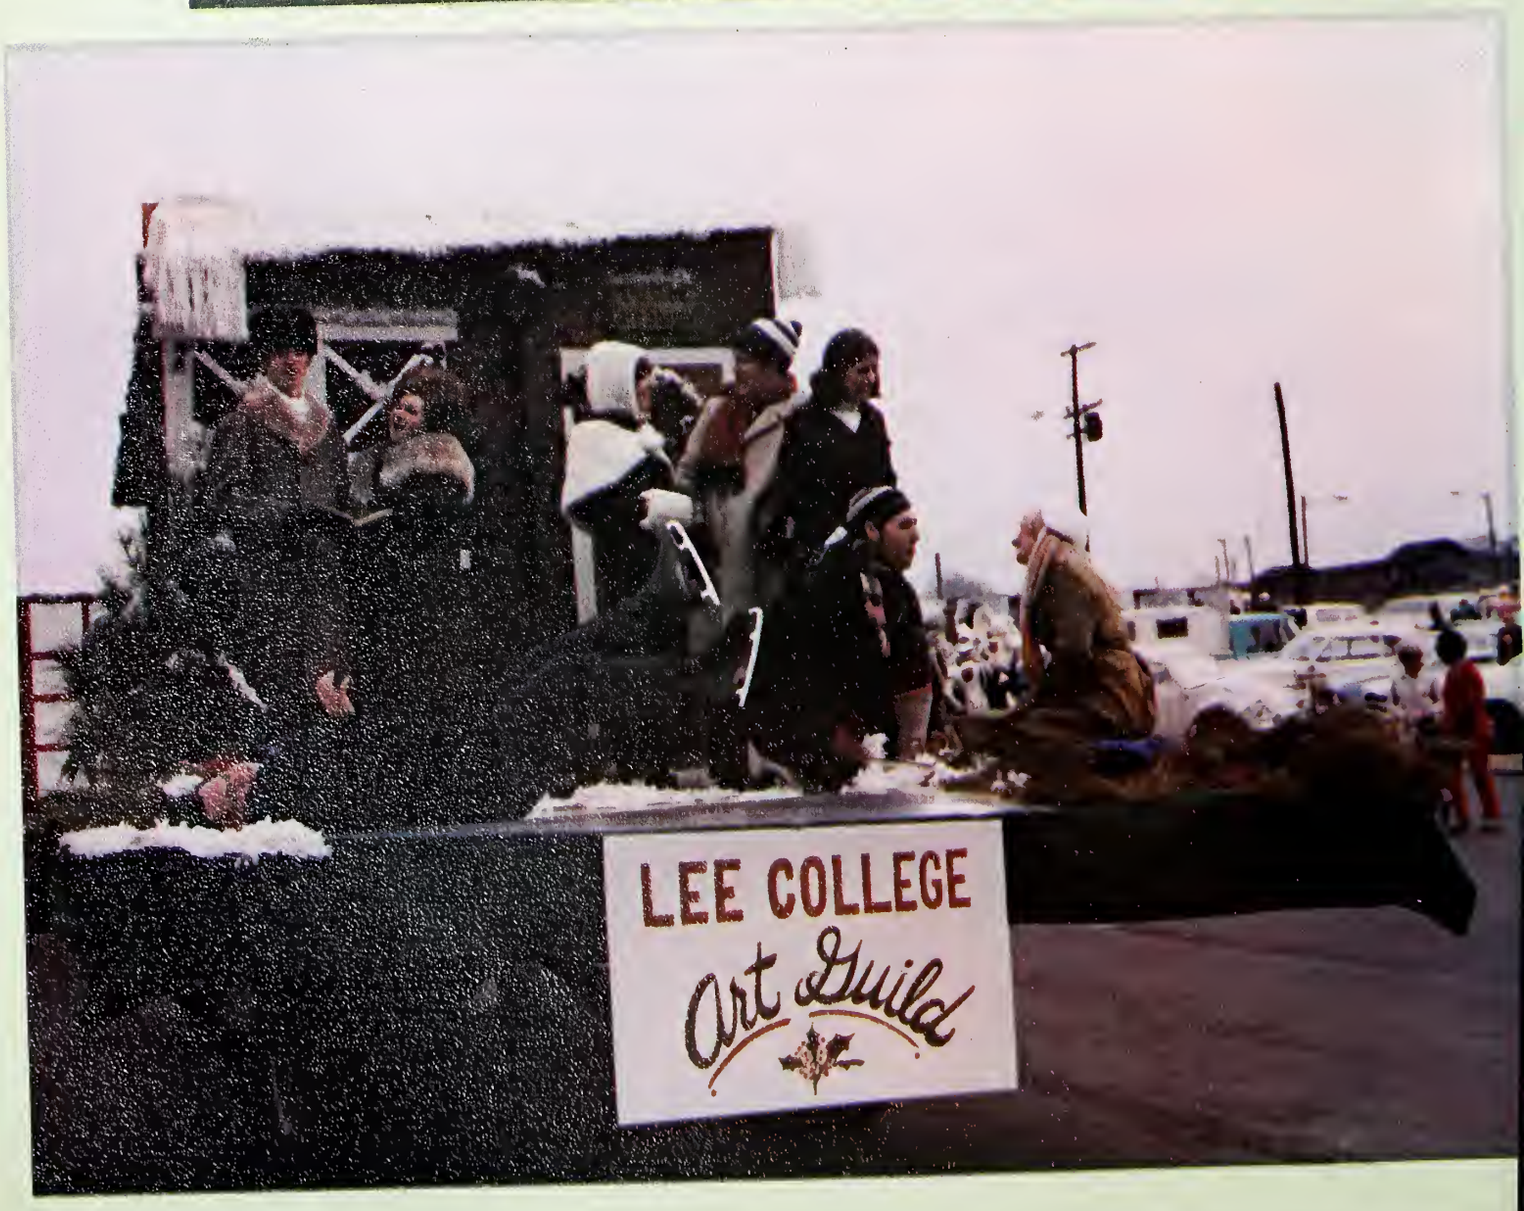
Social Life Presents A Challenge

The Image flees, the memory remains

Sports and Art are conquered



The Challenge

Youth, thinker of schemes, builder of dreams, blackened by the oil of his labors, sickened by failures, what is he to do?

Placed on a planet at the edge of a Galaxy, protected from oblivion by a slender shield. L i m i t e d by fears, plagued by faults, surrounded by confusion. What can he do?

Handicapped by inexperience, torn between ideologies, frustrated by the status quo, baffled by the very nature of things. What should he do?

Society begs conformity, individuality vows resistance, knowledge beckons, lethargy is passive, spirituality asserts itself, logic scoffs. What must he do?

Gradually from the fog comes realization, understanding. To his nation he owes allegiance and undying devotion; to himself, fulfillment, the necessity to accomplish. To humanity, to God on whom he has depended, he owes even more. To give more than he gets, to replenish more than he uses, to offer more than he has taken, this is his challenge.

His cause asserted, his dream visualized, he rises. Preparation is made. Through the humanities and sciences knowledge is gained. Beliefs are tried and rigorously tested, finally becoming cemented into fact. Acknowledging society becomes too little; he grasps it and lets it mold him in its image. But he does try, and trying succeeds. What will you do?

President James A. Cross

Dr. James A. Cross, now in his fourth term as President of Lee College, has perhaps guided the greatest period of growth for this institution. Under his supervision, Lee College has added a new men's dormitory as well as a new women's dormitory.

Under the Administration of Dr. Cross, Lee College has become a fully accredited institution. When on a brisk December afternoon, the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools informed Lee College that it had received its accreditation, the entire student body and faculty rejoiced as well as Dr. Cross. Proven to be a leader in the religious realm, Dr. James A. Cross has also shown himself to be an excellent educational administrator.

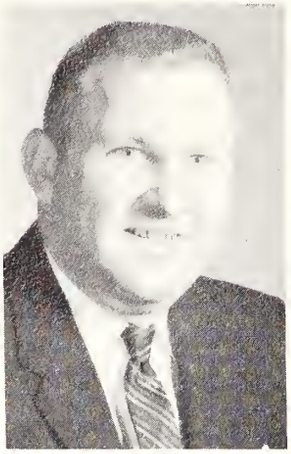
Vice-President Donald Aultman

This is the second year for the position of Vice-President at Lee College. Besides being authorized to fulfill the President's duties in his absence, the Vice-President is a help to students in areas of counseling and guidance. Other duties in the line of academic affairs which he is responsible for include coordinating curriculum planning, helping in class schedules, evaluating transcripts for transfer students, and being responsible for the academic section of the Lee College Bulletin.

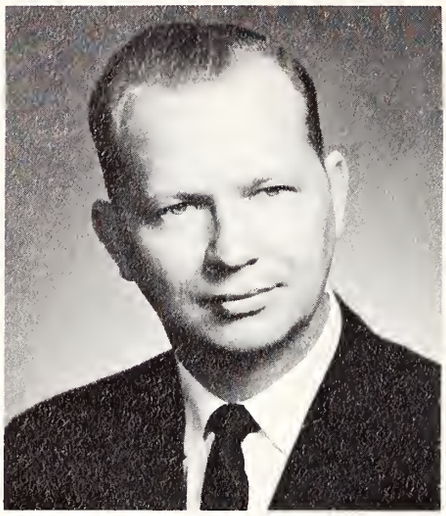
Dr. Donald S. Aultman has most capably filled this position for the past two years, and the student body continues to support him.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

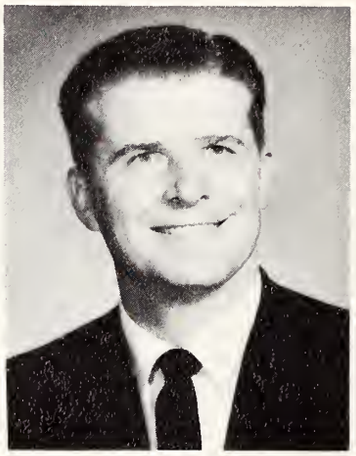
Lynwood Maddox



Thurman Curtsinger



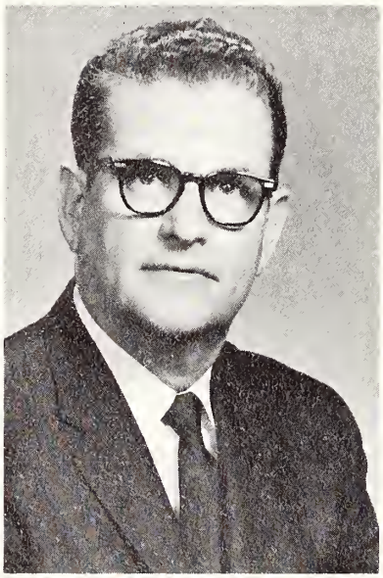
Philemon Roberts



Louis H. Cross

Fred P. Hamilton

F. J. May



Paul Stallings

Ralph Williams

William A. Lawson

H. B. Ramsey

Lynwood Maddox—layman, practicing lawyer in Atlanta, Georgia, gifted speaker, enthusiastic lay witness for Christ, obvious personal and professional talents for an expanding institution.

Thurman Curtsinger—layman from Lawton, Oklahoma, successful businessman, faithful churchman, a long-time supporter of Lee and a man most likely to see the school in terms of efficiency.

Philemon Roberts—pastor at Buffalo Avenue, Tampa, Florida, youth leader, dedicated to serving an upcoming generation and believing that Lee has a positive contribution to make.

Louis H. Cross—pastor of Tremont Avenue, Greenville, South Carolina, progressive but dedicated, and individualist bold enough to speak and fair enough to listen.

Fred P. Hamilton—layman from Seneca, South Carolina, professional educator, schooled at Clemson, for the past six years Superintendent of Schools for Oconee County, should prove invaluable in terms of program and procedural trends in the modern educational world.

F. J. May—ordained minister, pastor at Louisville, Kentucky, educated at Southern Illinois University, Mississippi Southern College, William Carey College, excellent rapport with the church, an English major.

Paul Stallings—senior member, reappointed since 1960, former overseer, present pastor of the Detroit Tabernacle, excellent link with Lee's expansion since 1960, an individualist and a thinker.

Ralph Williams — chairman, many years of service to the church, former General Secretary-Treasurer, present Overseer of Tennessee, a recognized leader.

William A. Lawson — practicing chiropractor in Albany, Georgia, active churchman in terms of Sunday school, YPE, pastor's council, professional and community leader.

H. B. Ramsey—well-known, established church leader, former state overseer of Ohio, Georgia, California and South Carolina, former Executive Council member, always a good, dependable voice.

Last year the Board of Directors was expanded to nine members, and at the recently held General Assembly, two other members were added. These eleven men are appointed biennially by the General Executive Committee.

These men in session compose a legislative body which determines school policy. They select and employ the college president, subject to the approval of the Executive Committee. They consider nominations of all faculty and school personnel submitted by the president, set salaries, and see that all school personnel, by contract, agree neither to teach, publish, nor allow to be published or taught anything contrary to the Declaration of Faith or any other established doctrine of the church.

Administrative Council

The Administrative Council of Lee College is composed of five members; each member directs a particular area of the overall campus operation.

James A. Cross (B.A., D.D.), President

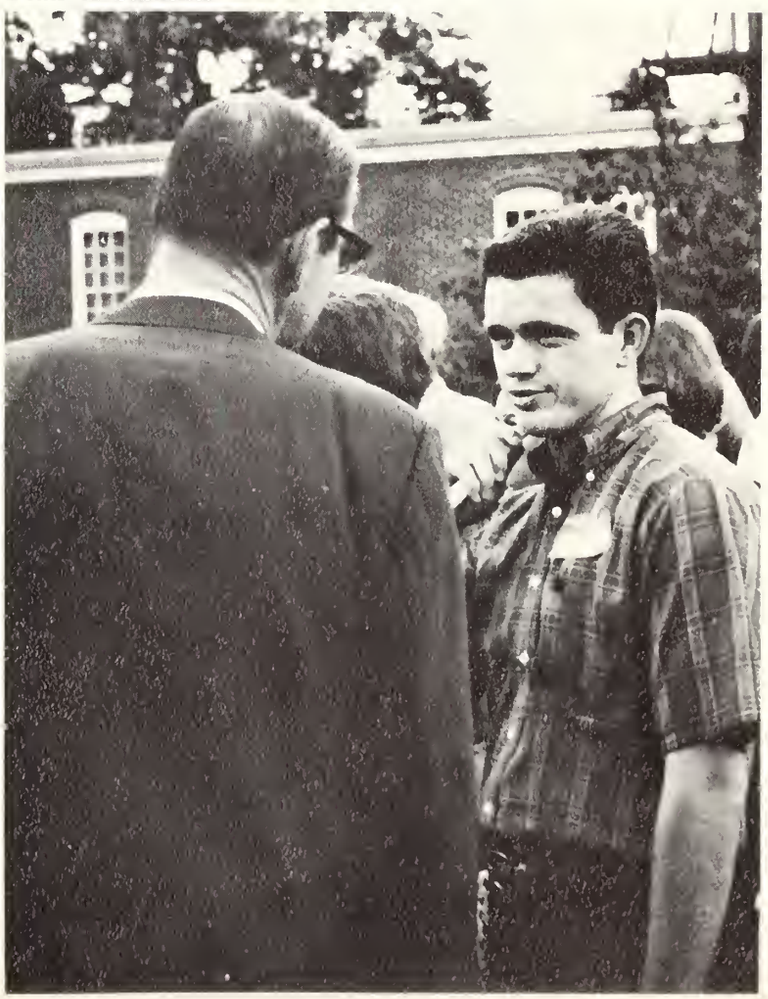
Donald S. Aultman (B.A., Ed.D.), Vice-President

Dr. Ward advises students about their futures at Lee.

Stanley Butler (B.S., M.A., Ed.S.),
Dean of Admissions

Horace Ward, Jr. (B.A., B.S. Ed., M.A., Ph.D.),
Dean of Students

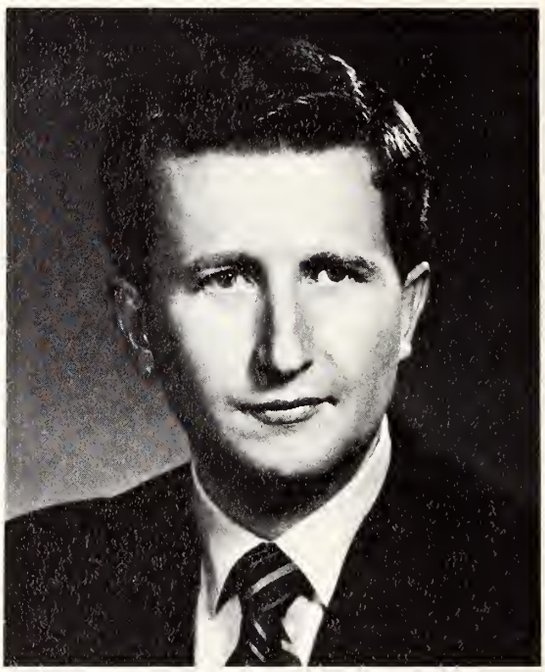
Don Pemberton (B.A.),
Business Manager



Dr. James Cross welcomes Lee Freshmen.

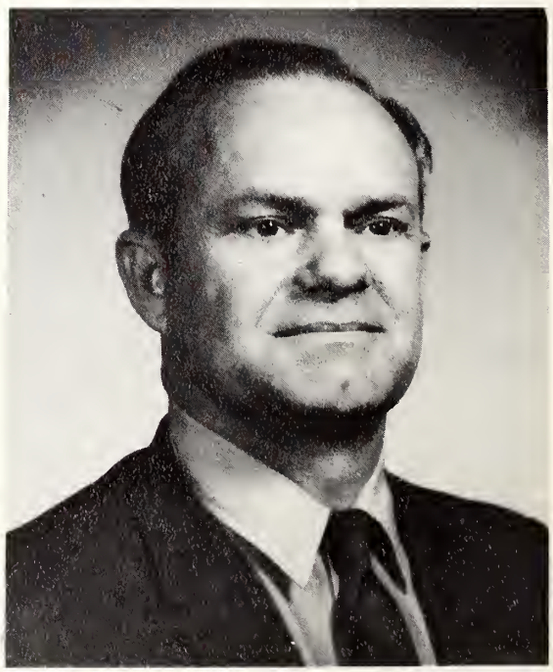
Academic Divisional Chairmen

Academic Divisional Chairmen serve in recently developed positions. These individuals proficiently plan the structure for each division of study, enabling students to select the most suitable courses of learning. Planning and guidance by each chairman in selected areas help students reach their vocational goals and academic degrees.



Dr. Delton L. Alford (B.M., M.M.E., Ph.D.)
Division of Arts and Sciences

The Rev. R. H. Gause, Jr. (A.B., B.D.)
Division of Religion



Dr. Bob Johnson (B.S., M.A., Ed.D.)
Division of Education

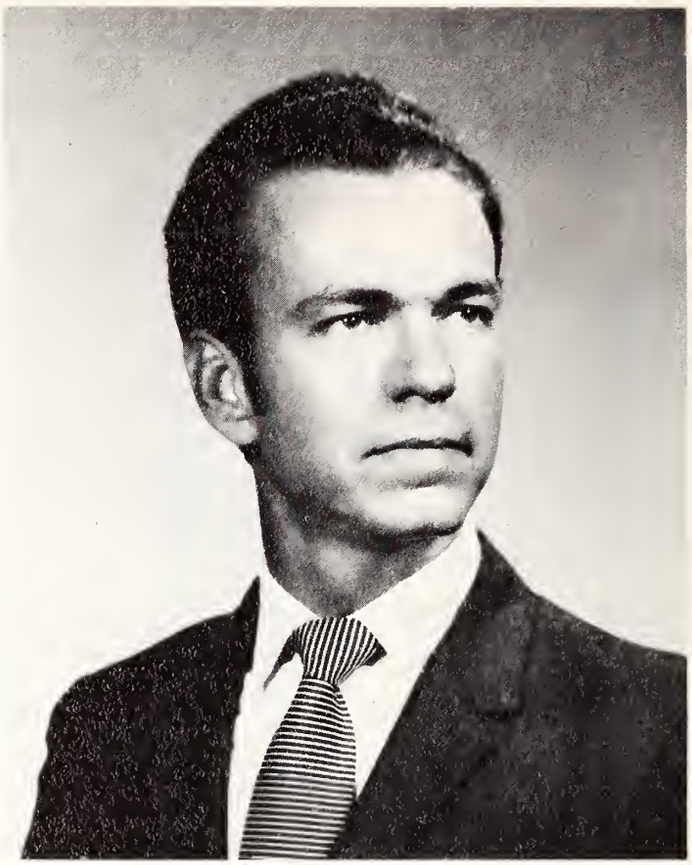
Librarians

Miss Barbara McCullough (B.S., M.L.S.)

Mr. Standifer (B.A., M.S.)

Professional librarians and members of the Library Staff play a major part in making the library serve the needs of the students effectively. An ever-increasing number of books lines the open stacks of the library. Study carrels provide a quiet atmosphere for intense concentration.

Dean of Men



"Student Services, may I help you?" the secretary asks as Lee's students approach the deans with problems, gripes, or just a simple desire to talk. Dean Echols is always ready with a reproof or a pat on the back as needed by the Men of Lee.

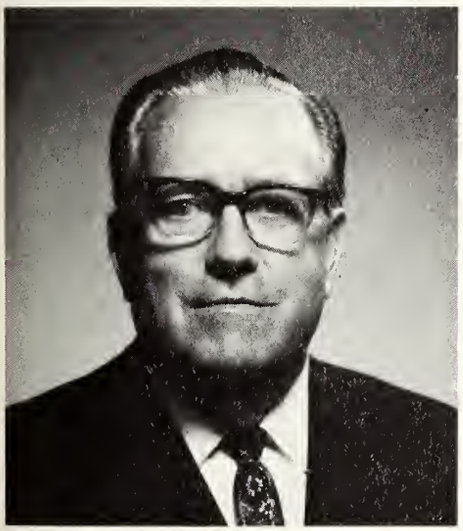
Dean of Women

Always ready with advice, Dean Aldrich goes through another year as Dean of Women.

Directors

Students find their needs well met by the guidance and assistance of the directors. Each director is responsible for important areas of campus life and business affairs.

W. Edwin Tull, Director of Christian Service



D. C. Boatwright, Director of Development

Wayne Chambers, Director of Student Aid

Hoyt E. Stone, Director of Alumni Affairs

Earl J. Gilbert, Director of Guidance and Counseling

Administrative Assistants

Acting as personnel assistants to very important administrative heads, David Painter, Wanda Griffith, and Evaline Echols perform a vital role in Lee College administrative workings.

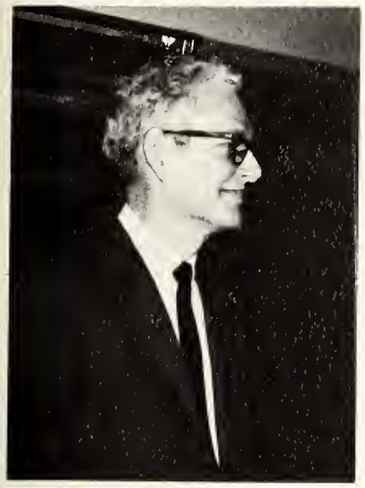
Trained specifically for their respective areas these persons offer professional aid in matters of importance.

David Painter (B.S.)
Assistant Treasurer

Wanda Griffith (B.S.)
Assistant Registrar

Evaline Echols
Administrative Secretary to the President

Department of Biblical and Historical Studies



James M. Beaty (A.B., B.D., Ph.D.)
Associate Professor of New Testament

Elmer Odom (B.A., M.A.)
Associate Professor of Religion

R. Hollis Gause, Jr. (A.B., B.D.)
Divisional Chairman

In depth dual study programs provide ample opportunity for training in cooperation.

Because each student who graduates from Lee College must obtain a minor in religion, this division is continuing to expand. Also being offered by this department is a B.A. degree in Biblical Education.

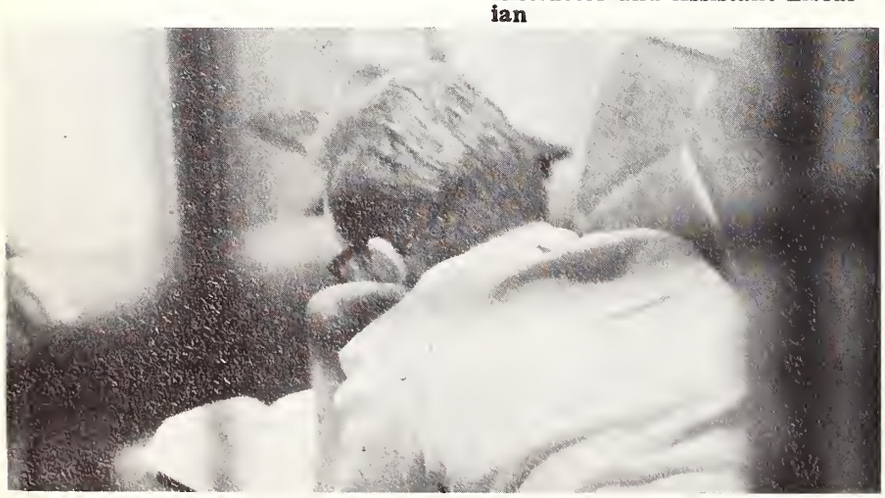
A selection of courses from this department may consist of Old and New Testament Surveys as well as Prophecy, the Pauline Epistles, the Gospel of John, Christian Ethics, or Christian Thought.

Heading the department this year is French Arrington.

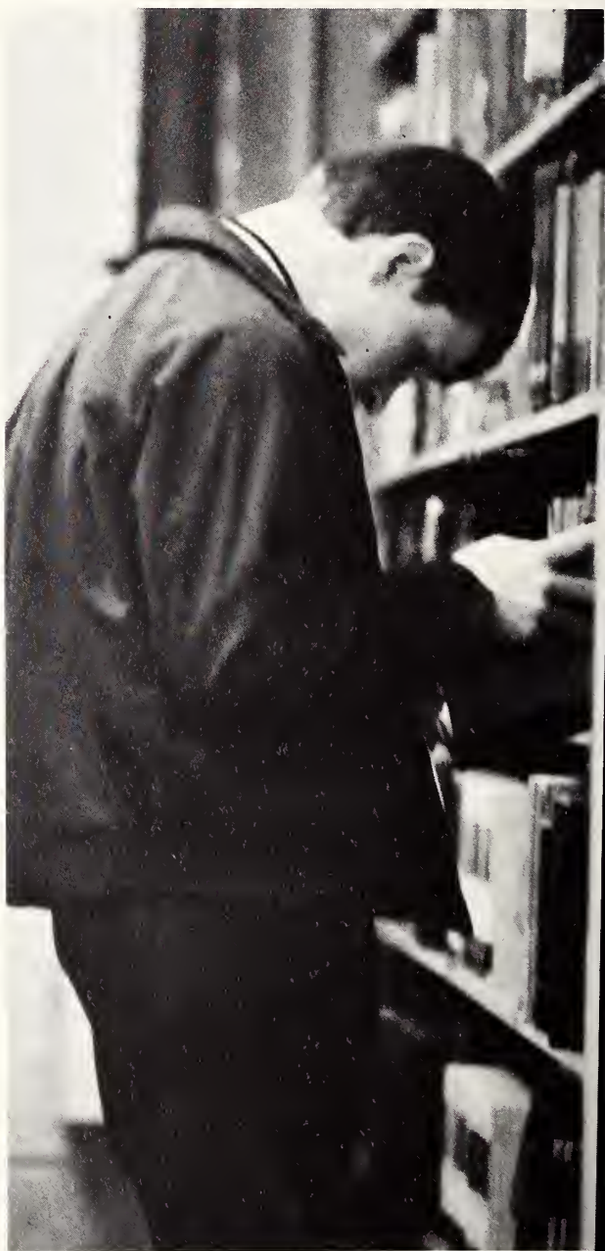
Department of Biblical and Historical Sciences

C. Jassell Bullock (B.S., B.D., Ph.D. candidate), Assistant Professor of Old Testament

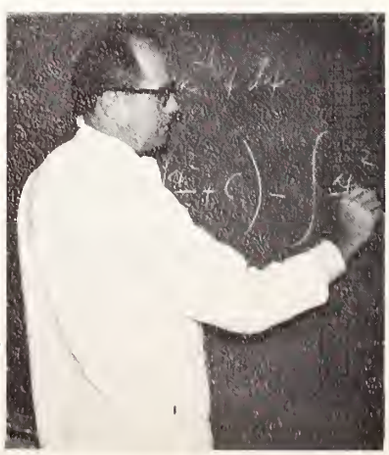
Frances Arrington (B.S., M.A.), Instructor and Assistant Librarian



Earnie Rowe finds that studying in the lobby gives him best results.



Jerry Clevenger investigates the New Testament.



Roland McDaniel (B.S., B.D.), Assistant Professor of Bible

Donald N. Bowdle (B.A., M.A., Th.M., Th.D.), Assistant Professor of Old Testament

Department of Business

Lee's Business Department is ably headed by Dr. Donald Rowe (J.D.). Expansion has been the theme here as it has been elsewhere in the college. New courses have been added and much needed equipment has been acquired.

Lucille Vance Elliot (B.A., M.A.), Associate Professor of Business Education

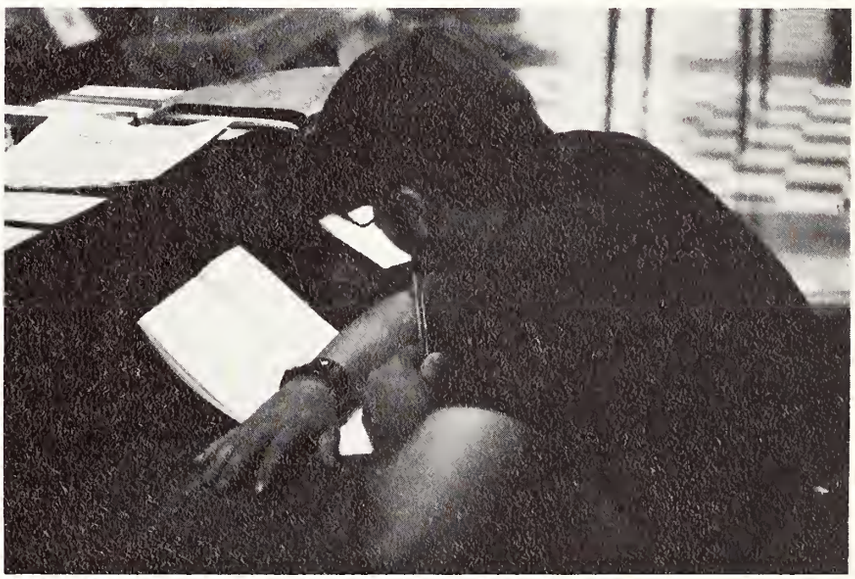
Department of Christian Ministries

"Christian ministries" is a term used to define the future activities of a number of Lee students. The department seeks to provide these neophyte workers with an educational and vocational background. Mr. Martin Baldree, chairman of the department, is one of the leading authorities in the field of Christian Education.

Eugene Christenbury (B.A., M.A.),
Assistant Professor of Pastoral Studies



Wayne Warren engrosses himself in Christian literature.

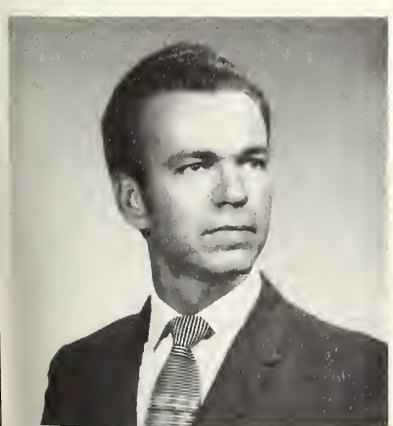
Professor of Education

Hubert P. Black (B.S., M.Ed., Ed.D.),
Department Head,
Professor of Education

Education and Psychology have expanded drastically this year. In anticipation of next year's major in Psychology, the department is changing course offerings and upgrading curriculum. This year a Behavioral Science major has been added in conjunction with the Social Science Department. Dr. Bob Johnson, a well-known educator, is the department head.

The sundial time—it seems as though there is never enough of that for the Lee student.

Bob G. Johnson (B.S., M.A., Ed.D.),
Associate Professor of Education



Honette Echols (B.S., M.A.),
Associate Professor of Education

Department of Education...

Dr. Bob Johnson, one of the college's vital faculty members, is the head of the Division of Education and Psychology. The goal of this department is the development of fully qualified teachers. More courses and new equipment have been added for the purpose of preparing prospective teachers. Student teachers are now taped and televised for their personal viewing and constructive criticism.

Department of Languages

Language is the vehicle of all human communication. Without it civilization, as we know it, could not exist. Lee's Language department seeks to continue its existence and increase the understanding of it. The department is headed by Professor Charles Beach, who teaches classes in French and German in addition to handling the duties of a department chairman. On leaves of absence are Prof. Robert Humbertson and Mr. Phillip Morris.

Department of Music... and Art

The musical and artistic abilities of Lee's students are produced and assisted under the tutoring of very fine and capable members of the Department of Music and Art. Musical instruction is provided by weekly private lessons, as well as instruction in representative singing groups as the Ladies Choir, Campus Choir, and the well-known Lee Singers. Much fine talent is also brought to light in the various shows of students' works in the Art Department.

Piano lessons play an important role in Lee's activities.

Department of Natural Science

This year many changes have been made in the Department of Natural Science. Dr. James McPherson has been added to the chemistry staff. He received his Ph.D. from Ohio State University. For the past fifteen years he has been involved in chemical research. The department received a $20,000 matching grant from the National Science Foundation which was used to acquire, among other equipment, a $10,000 autoclave for experimental purposes.

Extension into the area of Paramedicine is expected in the near future. Speakers such as Dr. Frank McCormick, a noted Ecologist, have been brought to the campus. Several students have recently presented papers at the Tennessee Academy of Science. This rapidly expanding and innovative department is chaired by Mrs. Lois Beach.

The Social Science Department is one of the largest departments on campus. Last year 41 students graduated with major areas in this department.

Social Sciences include areas of study about people: their past and present civilizations, c u s t o m s, philosophies, governments and problems.

Dr. Donald N. Bowdle has returned to the department's staff this year. He has earned another doctorate—a Th.D. in History from the Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Virginia.

Several new courses will be added to the curriculum in the near future.

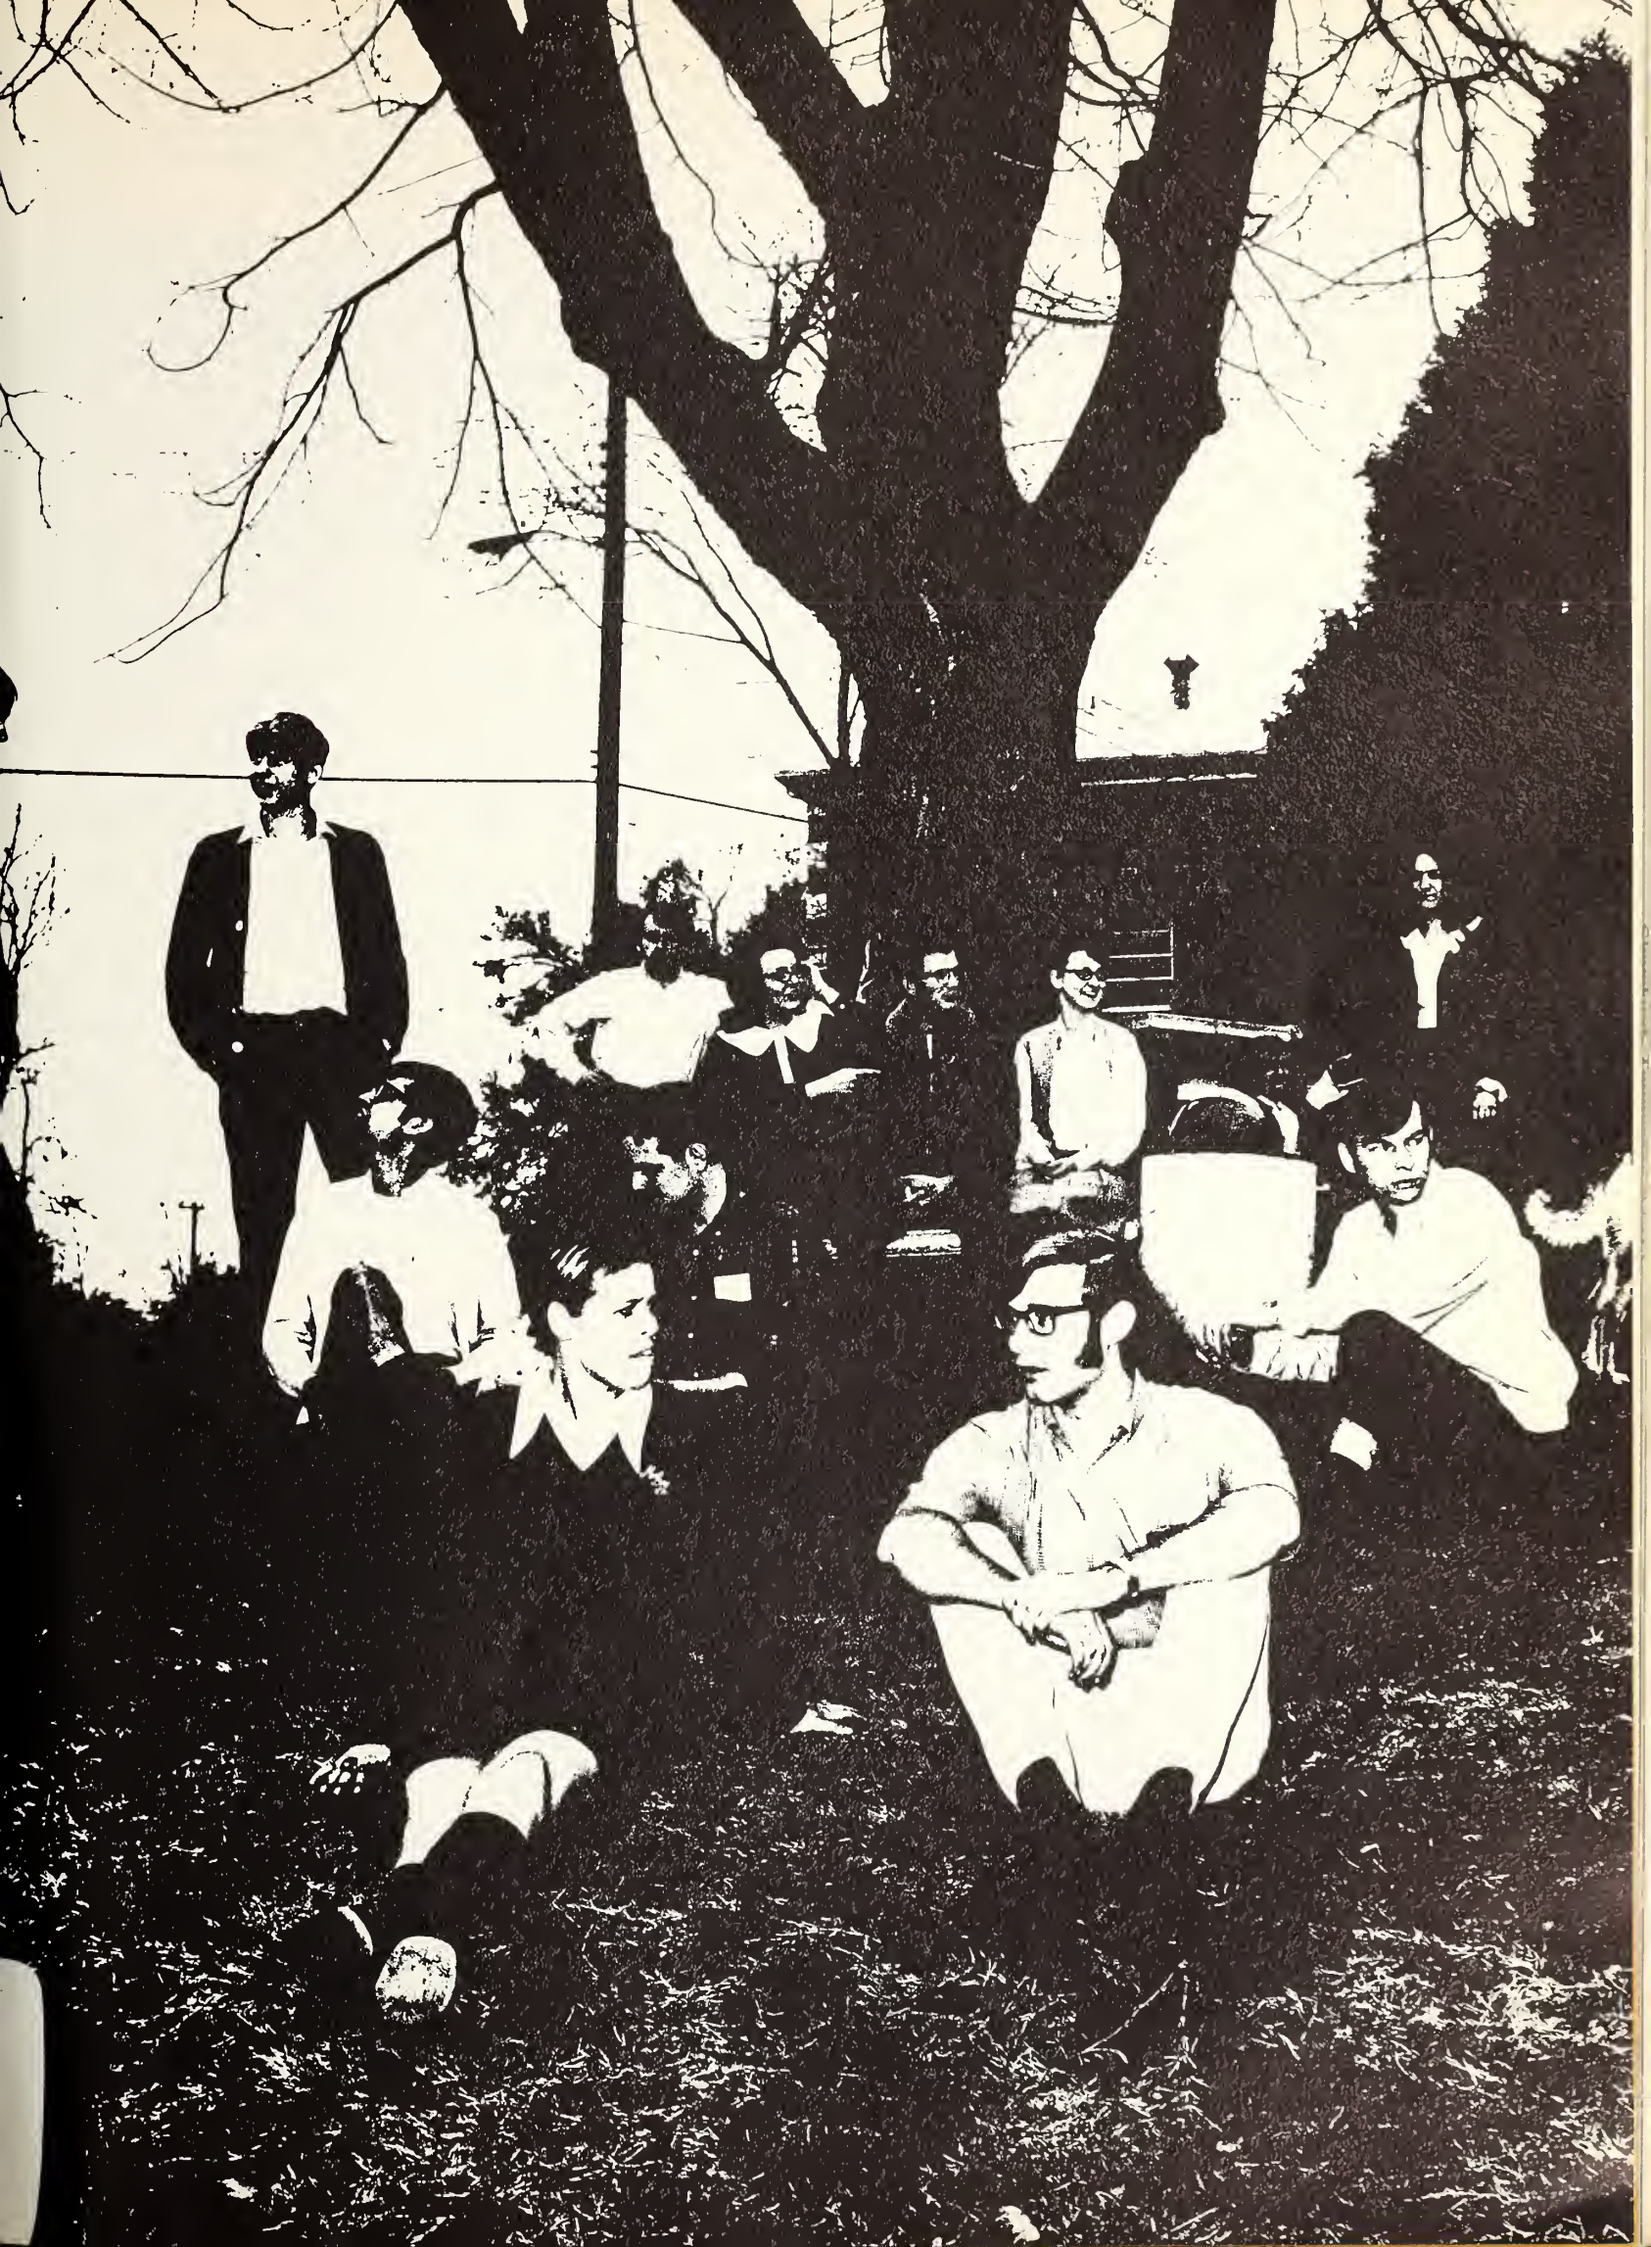
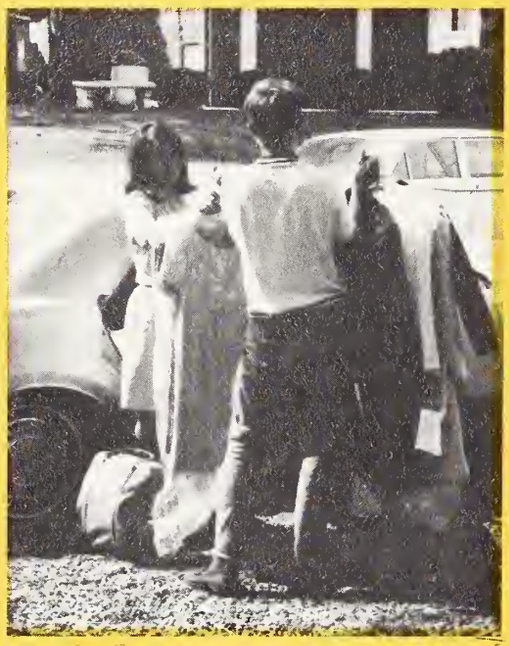
CAMPUS LIFE



Life begins...

Usually at night they came, to a new environment, new friendships, a new challenge.

Tenseness, uncertainty, and exuberance provided the keynote of their opening days at Lee. The freshman made a valiant attempt to "get to know" everyone in his search for a place but was frustrated by registration formalities and those perpetual lines. Then, of course, there was the unloading. It was over for a day . . . exhaustion!



Beth Homner receives help unloading her car.

Everyone has finally moved in and the campus is quiet.

Students begin semester with registration.

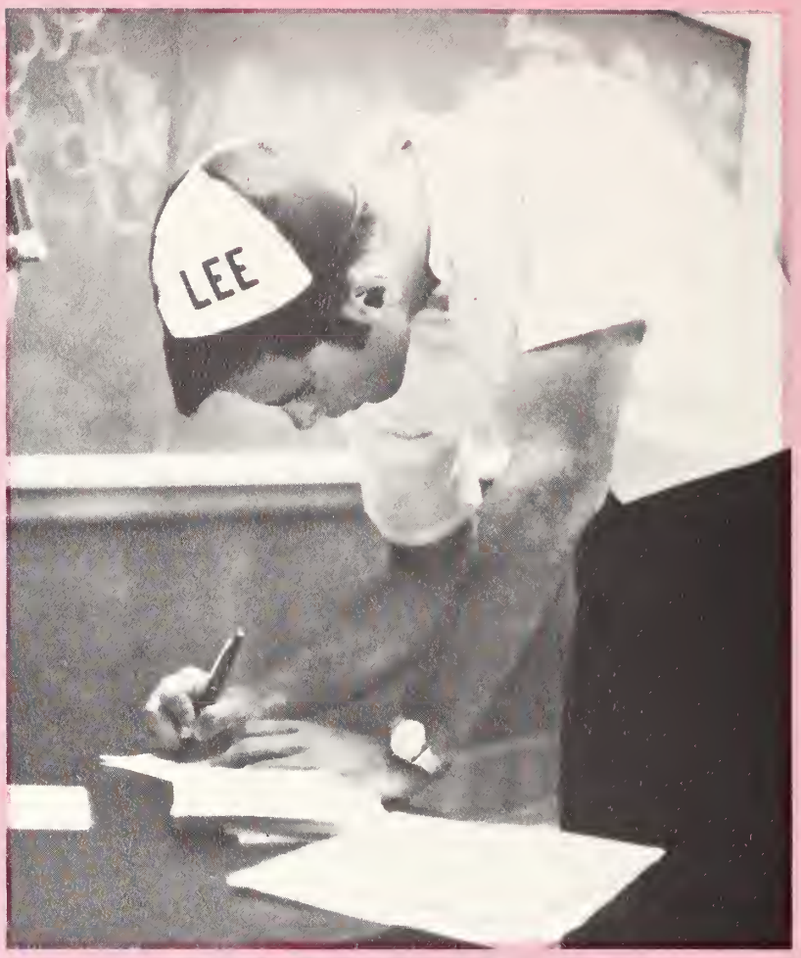
and grows fuller

An ice cream cone, a talk with a friend, or just a long rest under a tree broke the monotony.

Beanies were begrudgingly worn by freshmen and identified them everywhere.

Study was mixed with snacks and formed a livable, if not pleasant, concoction.



Freshmen are honored to wear beanies during Frosh Week.

Fall has many faces

In the early fall a number of young men and women descend on the campus of Lee College. Before they come, Lee is dad. There is a quiet solitude about it. When they arrive, everything breaks loose. Starry-eyed freshmen and those social beings the upperclassmen try to outdo each other.

Moonlight, s m i l e s, entertainment, sloppy joes and the burgundy and grey are what make up the annual Chi Cruise. Again this year ATX scored a striking success in a romantic cruise down the Tennessee River. The lights were dim, the water smooth and the company superb.

Sadie Hawkins

Sloppy clothes, stacks of hay and loads of fun made the 1970 Upsilon Sadie Hawkins event a time to remember. As a part of the day the girls chased the boys, for a change!

Okay you guys—together we stand, divided—we have to pay for the tickets!

Lil Abner (Nick Bradbury) and Daisy Mae (Ann Beasley) surely do have a lot between them.

The group gathers for the hayride, as all the gals have finally caught their men.

After a long day's chase, Beth and Ralph enjoy relaxing before the fire.

Dorm Life

In the dorm: these were places of dark halls and empty rooms—until curfew! Then everyone descended en masse to study, talk, sing, or just have fun. Some even practiced interior decorating.

Guys are eager to take time out to pose for a picture.

There is always time in the dorm for music and gossip.

Fall Revival

Religious life at Lee has become a vital part of the experience of a student. During the past year students met together innumerable times for worship and prayer. Privately they met with God. Campus Sunday School gave campus ministers and workers a place where they could practice their future vocations. Through their own devotions they dedicated themselves and found a useful purpose in life.

Spirituality—Lee's keynote.

Fine Arts at Lee reached a new high in '69-'70. The Fine Arts committee chose some fine examples of American performers to appear at Lee. Concerts were well attended. With such esteemed groups as Wilder and Hayle, The Hawaiians and many others, the students could not help but enjoy them.

Winter brings Christmas, cold, and snow.

Winter brought snow, wind, sleet and rain. With the snow, wind, sleet and rain came cold, wet, rolled snowballers; hairspray and combs, frowns, and wet, cold bodies. Parties and just about anything else you want to talk about came during the winter. These things, as any conscientious Lee student knows, make up the bulk of a school year.

Then there was Christmas. Everyone tried to outdo himself in celebrating the end of another semester. Classes held Christmas parties for their members and Delta Zeta Tau sponsored a big blowout for the entire student body. To end the year on a good note, the Circle K club collected money for the March of Dimes.

Campus groups worked diligently throughout the year to provide new ways for the Collegian to amuse himself. In the spring you could again find the students on the lawn, talking, playing, and simply having fun. The Easter bunny brought Easter eggs for little girls and boys (all Lee kids). They climbed trees and again as the fever struck, couples were seen together.

Homecoming Queen

Miss Debbie Elliot, Freshman sociology major, was elected the 1969 Homecoming Queen in a touching ceremony at "half-time" during the Fall Music Festival. Debbie is from Birmingham, Alabama. She plays the piano, reads extensively, and intends to become a missionary. Miss Elliot was elected by popuar vote of the student body.

Mr. and Miss Lee College

In the springtime when, as on other campuses, trees traditionally sprout buds, and young ladies close in for "the kill," Lee students pass around petitions for Mr. and Miss Lee College. This year, two outstanding seniors received the nod to wear the acclamation of Mr. and Miss Lee College 1970.

Miss Lee College 1970 was Tanya Trimble. She arrived on the scene with impeccable credentials. During her four years at Lee, she captivated all who knew her with her quick smile and refreshing wit. A member of Delta Zeta Tau, she served as its vice-president during her senior year. Her talents as a vocalist were displayed in the Lee Singers and the Collegians. Tanya was named Miss POF during her junior year and was proclaimed Miss Daisy Mae of 1969.

Presently living in Allentown, Pennsylvania, she is originally from Chattanooga, Tennessee.

James Allen Jones was chosen to serve as Mr. Lee College for 1970. James, a Biblical Education major, is a native of Orangeburg, South Carolina. He has, since coming to Lee, been awarded many honors, among them he has served as president of Pioneers for Christ and participated in Student Government.

For her talent presentation, Miss Betty Freeze chose a medley of popular songs.

Circle K was well represented by its sweetheart, Miss Priscilla Combs.

Miss Parade of Favorites

Miss Sonia Lane reigns as Miss Parade of Favorites 1970. Sonia is from Jacksonville, Florida, and represented the Varsity basketball team in the competition. She was chosen by the judges on the bases of talent, poise, beauty, and intelligence.

Her talent presentation was an adaptation of Hans Christian Anderson's story "The Little Match Girl" which she closed with the song "Who Can I Turn To." The judges turned to her, and she was crowned favorite.

Miss Lane is president of Delta Zeta Tau, Vindagua Campus Life editor, and a past Dream Girl of Upsilon Xi. She is a senior majoring in Social Science with teacher certification.

1969 Miss Parade of Favorites, Tanya Trimble, crowns Miss Sonia Lane.

A perfect ending

CLASS BEAUTIES

This year's Senior Beauty is Sharon Vasbinder. Sharon hails from Englewood, Florida, and intends to pursue a career in elementary education.

Ann Mixon is the 1970 Junior Class Beauty. The daughter of a military man, Ann is from Fort Belvoir, Virginia. While at Lee, Ann has been working on a major in elementary education.

A resident of Soddy-Daisy, Tennessee, Sheila Roddy represents the Sophomore Class as their 1970 Class Beauty. Her major is sociology, and she is planning a career as an occupational therapist upon graduation.

Vicki Caraway, this year's Freshman Beauty, is from Orlando, Florida. Vicki, a psychology major, is a member of Sigma Nu Sigma and serves as secretary to the Dean of Men. Her private interests include reading and horseback riding.

Academic Awards

Each year outstanding seniors are recognized for their academic contributions to the campus. The faculty votes on these awards which are announced each spring. The F. J. Lee Award is given to the Liberal Arts senior who has displayed an active interest in the academic, religious, and social life at Lee. Great emphasis is placed on achievement in the first two areas. The Tharp Award is given to a senior from the religion division whom the faculty considers most likely to make the greatest contribution in the church.

Each year colleges and universities throughout the United States choose representatives of their campus, the best they have to offer, to be listed in a book of superlatives—a book which contains the finest young men and women of that year's senior class. The faculty of Lee College made their choices from a list of highly qualified individuals. They feel that their choices reflect the cream of the 1970 graduating class.

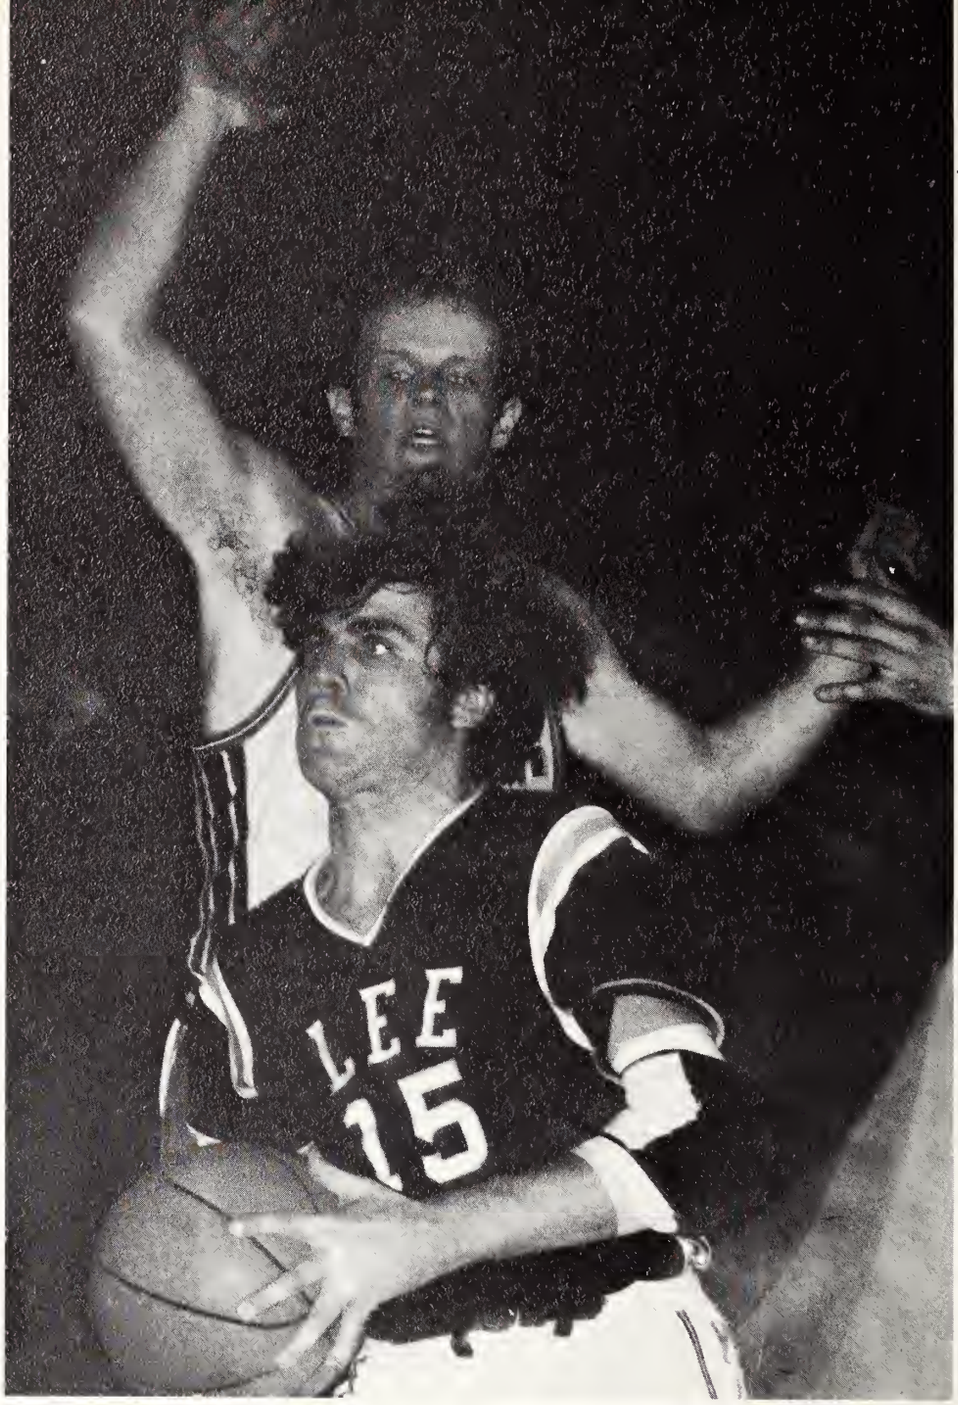
Basketball . . .

As the days grew longer in October the Vikings prepared for the coming season. Now the season is ended and the record reads like this: a 23-6 won-loss record, one SCAC conference trophy, one SCAC tournament trophy, and a third place trophy in the NCCAA. A great deal of hard work and dedication brought the team together. Increased experience and the return of David "Monty" Montgomery gave hints of what the season was to unveil.

Dave Montgomery returned this year after a year's absence because of a leg injury. He led in scoring with 499 points and had 267 rebounds to his credit.

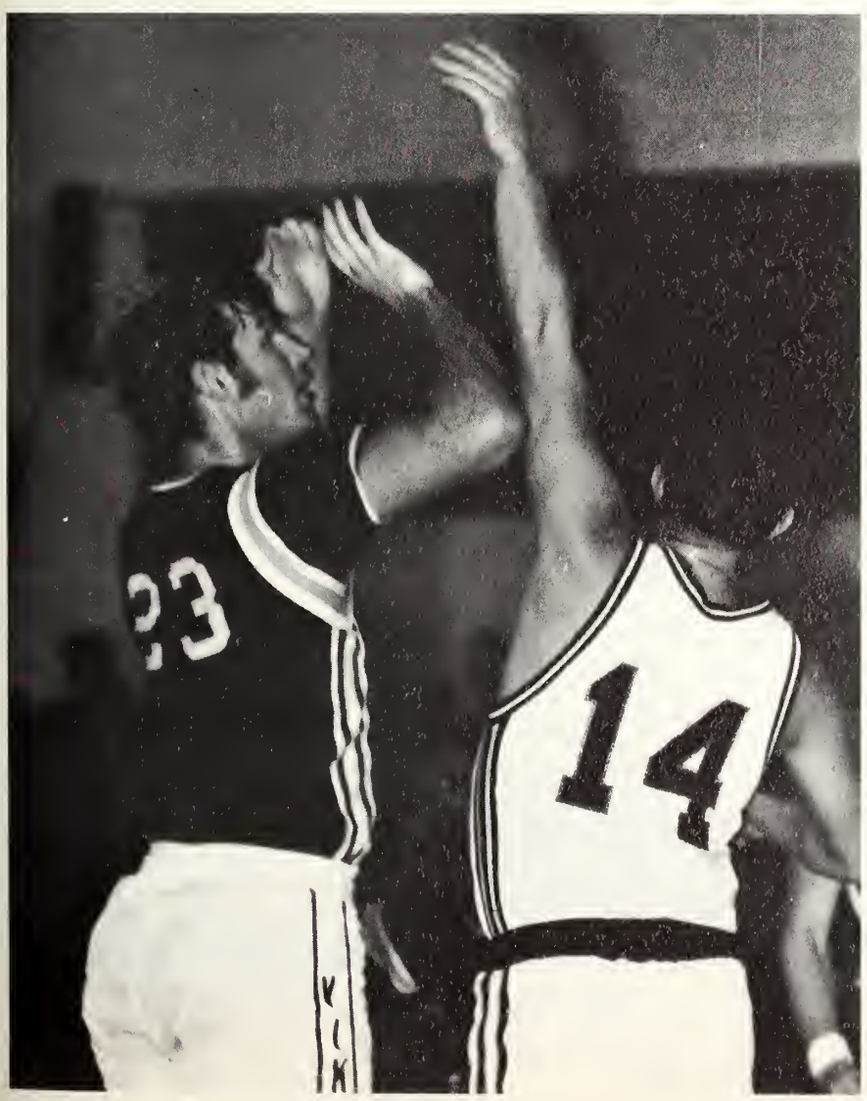
Senior David Montgomery's jump shot is the reason he was the leading scorer.



Greg Cain displays his quickness as he drives past Jeff Heath of Temple.

Seniors Ralph Osborne and David Montgomery hold an SCAC trophy.

A victorious team holds the SCAC Tournament trophy which they have won four years straight.



Gary Trenum hopes the shot will drop.

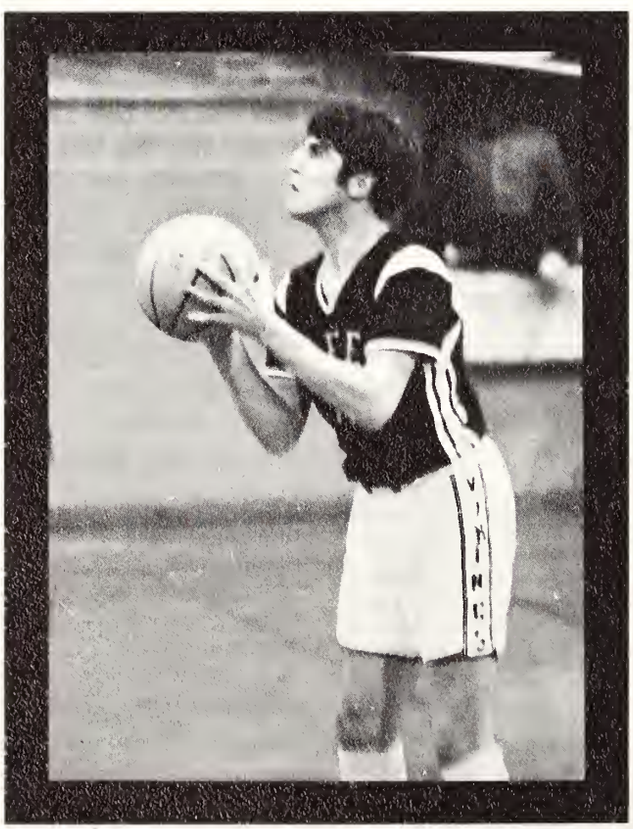
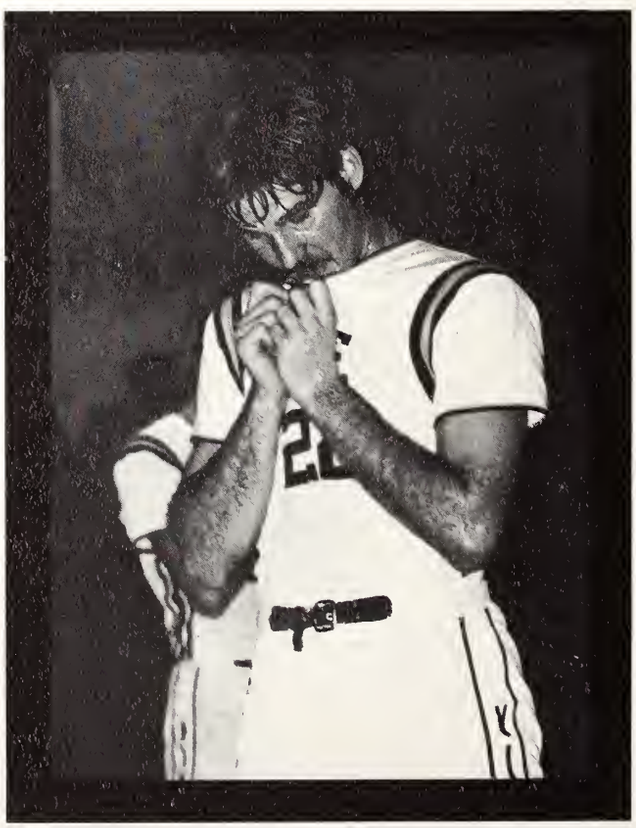
Gary Trenum shows how he became top man in steals with 64.



Greg Cain was not the man to foul, 70 percent from the charity stripe.



Gary pauses during the action to wipe away the sweat.

Al Barnett got 474 rebounds and you can see why!

Can an umpire really change his mind? Coach Hughes wonders after that Temple game.

Al Barnett stretches for two of his 389 total points.

Larry Dunn, No. 12, replaced Greg Cain to help lead the team to a big win over Emmanuel, to take over first place.

Don Whittemore of the JV's lays it up against Temple JV's.

Balance was one of the strong points for the Vikes this year. Seven good ball players who worked together to make the season come out good. Not many teams have a trained bear, but ours has Gary 'Bear' Trenum, a 6'3" sophomore who does a two-handed stuff shot during the warmups. Gary has provided great strength on the boards, gathering in 335 rebounds and his quickness on defense is attested by his 64 steals. Every team has got to have a little soul, but ours has a big 'soul,' Mike Linley, the top rebounder and second best point getter. Mike is 6'5" and loves to drive the lane. He will be back next year and he will be tough!

Seven lovely coeds cheered the Vikings on. Throughout the season they were there when few others were. From midweek games to the big one on Saturday night—win or lose—they were there. Their hands held high, the sign of victory, and from the students came the resounding vibrations—We're No. 1.

In the afternoon they gathered slowly. At times it seemed as though action would never occur. But they came; each team represented some phase of campus life. Under the direction of Mr. Jerald Teachy, the 1969 intramural football season began. The Juniors ran up an eleven-game winning streak before a much improved Sophomore team caught them in the finals and upset the Juniors by a TD. The All-Stars defeated Covenant by the score of 47-12 in a brutal game. Winter came, and cleats gave way to tennies. Basketball action was fast and exciting as the team sought to win the trophy. The Juniors surged on, but this time no one would stop them. Some came close, but none close enough, so the Ministers went down in the championship game.

During the winter semester the group conducted a chapel program, with Jack McDonald, a congressional candidate, as the featured speaker. Alpha Gamma Chi

Chi Men in burgundy and grey helped to usher in the school year with their annual riverboat cruise down the Tennessee River. On-board President, Ron Boyd, presented Miss Linda Watson as sweetheart of Alpha Gamma Chi.

"Donk day" was one of Chi's semester highlights when new members were officially received into the organization.

Chi guys proved once more to Lee College their school spirit and enthusiasm with their homecoming project. A giant basketball was perched precariously on the edge of a graveyard, holding the graves of those opponents who had fallen before the Lee Quintet. As always, Christian leadership was exemplified by the men in burgundy and grey.

On Sadie Hawkins Day young men were literally swept off their feet by the swift Daisy Maes in hot pursuit.

The Upsilon XI calendar was distributed during January of the winter semester. Gene Cotton, an honorary member of Upsilon XI as well as a well-known recording artist, performed for the general campus in a concert which was well received.

Delta Zeta Tau

The Deltas this year began their activities with a "Punch" for the freshman girls. Ralph Osborne was chosen as beau for the year and things were moving well. Fall for the DZ's was the time for two major projects: Fall Fling, a Saturday outing at Lake Chilhowee, and their Thanksgiving activity which involved the whole campus in an act of charity. Food and clothing were donated by the Lee students, collected by the women of Delta Zeta Tau, and given to a needy family.

Sigma's women were active this year in all aspects of campus, community, and religious life.

Helping to welcome the Frosh girls, Sigma sponsored a get-acquainted coke party. Under the guidance of President Sondra Slater, Sigma Nu Sigma women sponsored a Fashion Emphasis week wherein a charm school, a dinner, and a fashion show were presented to the campus. Among their other activities were sponsoring the film "For Pete's Sake"; supporting an orphan, giving attention to children in the hospital at Christmas; the annual Christmas banquet, and sponsoring a chapel service.

Two highlights of the year were the receiving of the Circle K Academic Achievement Award and the selecting of Mike Roberts as Sigma's beau.

Circle K

Meetings, fun, service, fellowship, and self-gratification were attributes of this two-year-old club. Since its beginning, the club has worked with the community action of Cleveland providing recreation and cultural enrichment to the underprivileged of the city.

This service club represented a unique cross-section of campus life which provided new ideas and associations.

Phi Delta Omicron

Phi Delta Omicron Honor Society was previously established for the scholars of Lee's Bible College, but this year it became the honor society for Lee's religion division. A minimum of a 3.0 overall grade point average is the basic requirement to be eligible for membership in this group. Monthly meetings containing business, discussions and special speeches were a time of sharing mentally, socially and spiritually.

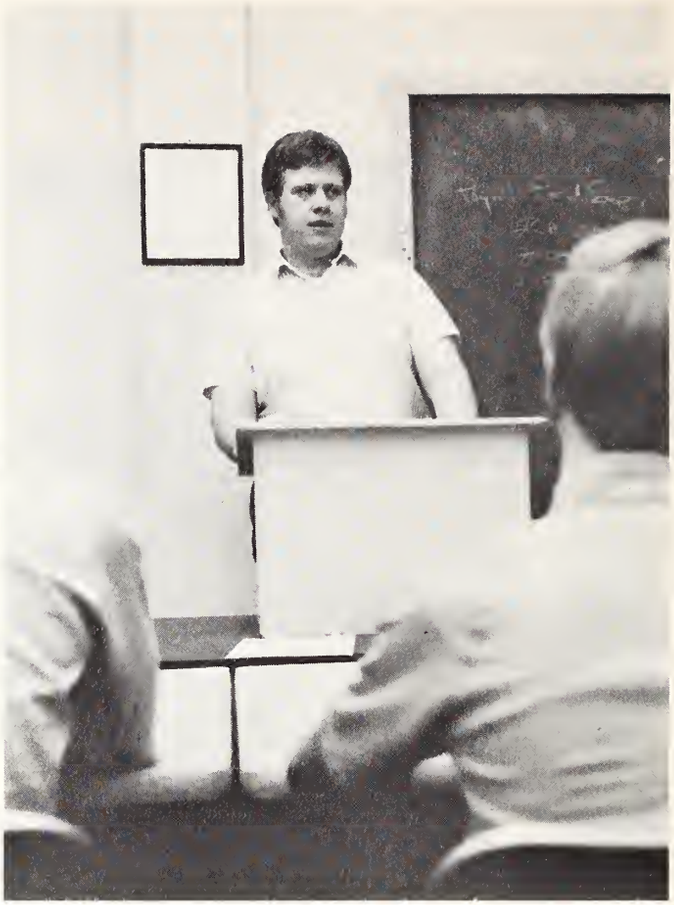
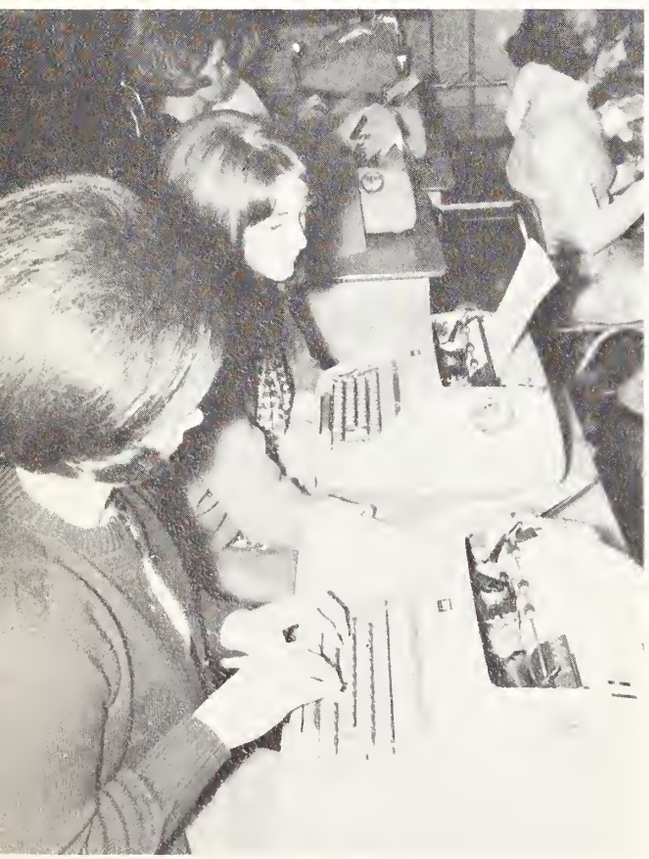
Phi Beta Lambda

The organization for business students, Phi Beta Lambda, provides activities such as trips to local businesses and exposure to a real business environment. The club sponsors both individual and group projects of a business nature enabling students to become familiar with and develop the necessary qualities required in the business world.





Phi Sigma Alpha members practice secretarial skills.

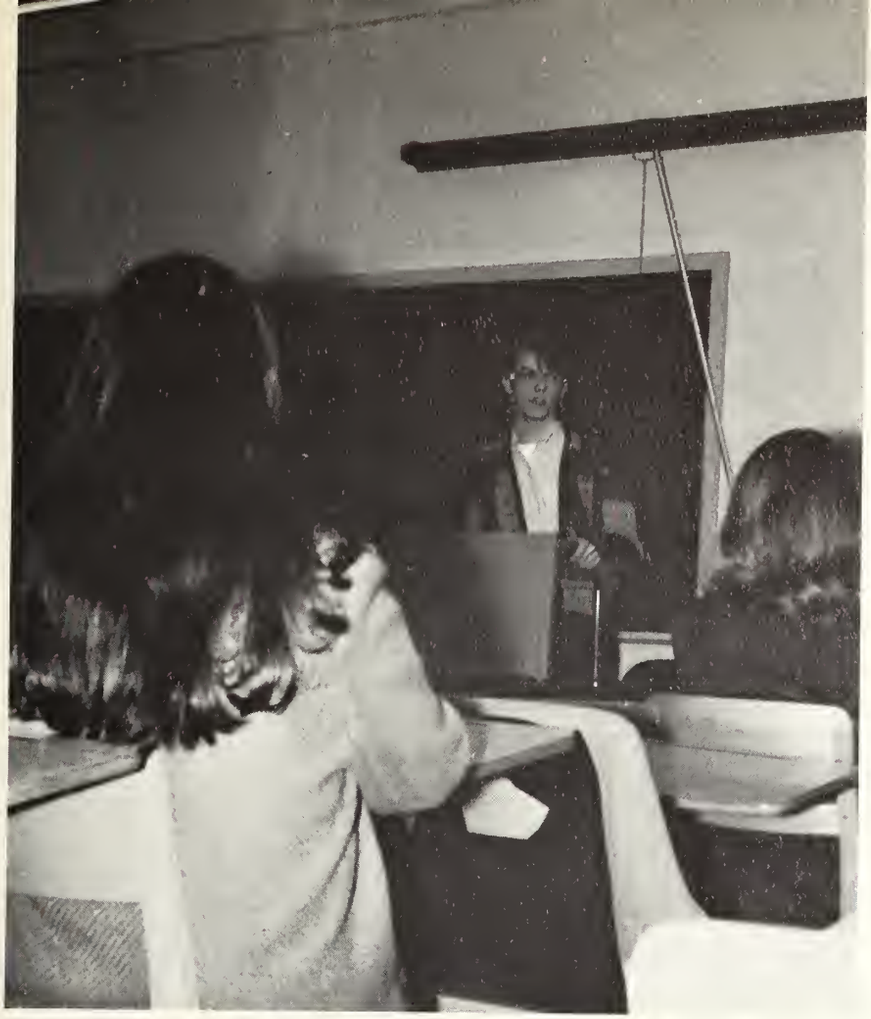
Phi Sigma Alpha

Many future secretaries wanting practical experience in the arts and manners of their future profession join this campus organization.

Campus events included meetings and projects to raise funds for supplies and materials concerning job opportunities in secretarial and executive stenographic positions.



Student National Education Association

The Student National Education Association is designed to benefit future teachers. Guest lecturers visited the Lee Campus for the purpose of expressing new views of educational practices.

Increasing in membership since last year to well over fifty members this year, the group, under the direction of their president, Carl Anderson, has opened the doors for a service to the campus. Go-talks and entertainment along with educational knowledge for interested students were among the club's activities on and off campus.

International Club

Those students who wish to bridge the gap between peoples throughout the world find their outlet in the International Club. Club activities included a Halloween party for members, a Thanksgiving banquet, and a film on Israel. The club's sixty members were well led by Ridley Usherwood. Donut sales were conducted as money raisers to allow the club to carry out its projects. "International" is truly the word for a group whose members come from England, France, Indonesia and many other countries, as well as the U.S.

Ministerial Club

A significant part of Lee's student body is made up of ministerial students who formed the Ministerial Club. Their activities have included revival and chapel services as well as special banquets and weekly prayer services. Each member's dedication to his ministry added much to the club as well as to the school.

A Christmas Banquet was held with Santa Claus and all the trimmings.

Ministers in the club sponsored assembly programs during the year.

Missions Club

Missions is the development and expansion of the international church. Fostering brotherhood on the campus of Lee is the foremost aim of the Missions Club. To acquaint members with various cultures, visitors from around the world are the guest speakers for the club. Missions Emphasis week made the entire campus aware of the ever-active missions program.

Outings were sponsored by the Missions Club for members and friends.

Students attend the weekly service held by the club.

Pioneers for Christ

"Pioneers for Christ" is the largest organization at Lee. The members, all 200 of them, participate directly in the great commission. "Invasion" is the word that characterizes the basic operation of PFC. Whether for a weekend, a week, or an entire summer, the club's activities are designed to invade the world with the gospel message. This year, teams of students participated in Christmas invasions to Florida, Memphis, and Chicago. During the summer of 1970, teams will reach outward to Europe and the West Indies.

Servicemen's Club

The Servicemen's Club, a group of ex-servicemen, tries to foster a patriotic feeling among collegians. In keeping with their patriotic ideals, the club volunteered to raise and lower the American flag for a month and also held a special flag raising and lowering service on Veteran's Day.

MENC

Music majors find their professional enjoyment in the varied program provided by the Lee College chapter of the Music Educator's National Conference. Each month seminars were held. Graduate programs, church music, folk music in the church, and the field of electronic music were explored. The club held a Christmas party and "carol sing" in the student center. In March, senior members of the club traveled to Chicago to participate in the national conference of the organization.

Art Guild

One of the fastest growing and most demanding clubs on campus is the Art Guild. The club's artistic abilities were displayed in such varied activities as their Sock Frolic booth, art displays, and a float built and decorated by the members.

Pep Club

Led by their president, Bill Jaber, the Pep Club had an eventful year. Contributing to campus spirit and enthusiasm this year's club provided a useful service.

MCAA

The Men's Christian Athletic Association of Lee provides intramural sports for young men. Each fall, football is sponsored; in the winter it's basketball, and every spring softball occupies the time of the MCAA member. The year's activities were capped off with the annual MCAA banquet at which trophies were distributed.

Basketball was "to lose" during Freshmen I vs. Sophomore.

WCAA

Women have their sports organization too. This is known, in contrast to the male's group, as the Women's Christian Athletic Association. The ladies conducted intramural leagues in volleyball, badminton, basketball and softball. The winter semester found the women's group sponsoring a student-faculty basketball game, won by the students and for themselves an outing to Gatlinburg to unwind at the close of the year.

CLARION

Kendall Gentry, as editor of Clarion, led the college's student newspaper through a year beset by numerous problems. An inexperienced staff attempted to resurrect the sheet and launch it on a radically new course. Their efforts will not be fully seen for some years. The paper is published monthly and on special occasions such as Homecoming and College day. An interesting note is that the Homecoming issue of '69 appeared two days after the event. These problems arose in spite of the dedicated efforts of Kendall and staff. New proposals were made and submitted to the administration which would allow the monthly newspaper to become a magazine, a position which no doubt it would fill more equitably.

Kendall Gentry talks it over with Linda Salvage.

VINDAGUA

Taking pictures, meeting deadlines, working nightlong hours, losing minds, and having fun—all of this went into putting out the 1969 VINDAGUA.

Aside from merely putting out a book, the VINDAGUA staff had several other activities throughout the year. In January, the staff presented the annual Parade of Favorites. The staff took a weekend Spring vacation to the resort town of Gatlinburg, Tennessee. Ice skating, picnicking and horseback riding were the main forms of weekend recreation.

Class of '70

Frosh Fortnight began the Senior Class's activities for the year. Planned carefully, it all started with beanies which reluctant members of the freshman tribe placed on various parts of the body. The head led the list of most used methods of wearing said "beanie," but hip pocket and inside-out followed closely. The two-week era, which is the meaning of fortnight, ended graciously for many in the Dating Game activities sponsored by the soon to be alumni. Many seniors practiced their future careers on unsuspecting, innocent, yet receptive children by involving themselves in Student Teaching. The annual Senior Banquet ended a year with the question which has resounded again and again throughout this book. Will their challenge, given here at Lee, be answered forthrightly and honestly by their future?

Class of '71

Three years they have walked this campus. Proud of their accomplishments, thirsting after graduation, the juniors held a donut sale. Since such sales are much more beneficial than they appear to be on paper, it is safe to say that the above sentence will be greeted with general howls of derision. A spirit of class participation was engendered in the group by the able president, Mr. Raymond Culpepper. The class intramural football team led the league for the entire season, to be defeated in the final game of the year by the sophomore squad. Still the refrain must be repeated—was the challenge met?

When money was needed, projects were discussed. Out of the discussions came the sophomore class car washes. The treasury again felt the existence of funds which made possible a class Christmas party. The class, decimated numerically over the previous year, produced an intramural football squad that amazed all by emerging from the middle of the pack to take the championship. Did the class meet the challenge?

Class of '73

They were a new generation, a unique creation; protecting each other from the new experience. Each year a class presents unique characteristics to the campus. These are the best memories of an extinct group. A class dies with every issue of a yearbook. Nostalgia is fine for awhile, but a time comes when we must judge ourselves with an eye to the future. An old tradition was revived, the Freshman class staged "Joan of Arc," the first class play in many years. The political orientation of previous Frosh classes was forgotten and the social animal appeared, hungry for recognition without involvement. Was the challenge met?

The night cometh when no man can work.

Jesus said in His Word, "I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work" (John 9:4).

We, the members of South Cleveland Church of God, feel the urgency of these words of our Lord. Surely we are in the evening time of Christ's soon coming.

We therefore invite you to come and join with us as we endeavor to work in these last waning hours before our Lord's reappearing brings all work to an end.

COME YE

Around the world people are langing far ane thing—peoce. This can be faund only in the Lard Jesus Christ who said, "Come unta me . . . ond I will give you rest."

GO YE

"Every heart withaut Christ is a missian field and every heart with Christ is a missianary." Yauth wont o chollenge. They wont o couse for which they can live ond die. This great need is fulfilled in missians. Christ cammanded: "Ga ye inta all the world ond preoch the gaspel ta every creoture." The whole world woits for the young person who will completely give his life to the will af the Lard.

The Historic School Year 1969-70
When the Liberal Arts College
Recieved Full Four-Year
Accreditation

Throughout the history of the church few congregations have given so much for the benefit of the whole as has the East Chattanooga Church of God. This year the church is celebrating fifty years of continued service to the community, under the direction of its capable pastor, Rev. Leonard S. Townley. The church has become known as the mother of general overseers and leaders in the church. Eleven of its ministers have served as General Overseer and others have performed responsible duties throughout the church. On this, the Golden Anniversary, it is our duty to proclaim the blessings of the Lord in the work at the East Chattanooga Church of God.

WESTMORE CHURCH OF GOD

As a community of Pentecostal believers we love to worship together, listen to the preached Word, and search the Scriptures for God's message to us. Our fellowship, though not perfect, is honest and rich. Our outreach, though still limited, is meaningful and sincere. God is using us and for this we are thankful.

Our church was constituted on July 14, 1968. There were 199 charter members. Since then many others have joined our fellowship. While we thankfully acknowledge this numerical increase, we most of all are thankful for the spiritual growth God gives in our lives.

Our hearts are open to receive others into our fellowship. There is a special place in our church for young persons. Come visit and worship with us.

F. L. McClung
Pastor

Our Challenge — To Love

I Corinthians 13:3

And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not love, it profiteth me nothing.

Christian citizens of the U.S.A.
Alive in 1970.
By Divine will, immeasurable capacity
For good or evil is granted us—
The greatest that man has known.

Out of fear, resentment, tradition, or sincere misunderstanding
This capacity for right—
This power is shunned,
And shunned, it stagnates—
Spawning wrong use, selfish motives,
Warped philosophies, sick societies.

Faults obvious, inadequacies inherent, guilt justified,
Our commission not diminished.
Our responsibility ever present;
We must strive on
To try, to improve, to live.

Our commission apparent,
Our motivation unique,
We must strive and gain and realize.

God—Our strength,
Jesus Christ—Our model,
Love—Our challenge.

For the Christian
Nothing more is asked,
Nothing less accepted.
